Middle East Book Award Winners

Established in 2000, the Middle East Book Awards recognize exemplary books for children and young adults that contribute meaningfully to an understanding of the Middle East and its component societies and cultures. Books are judged on the authenticity of the portrayal of a Middle Eastern subject, as well as on their characterization, plot, and appeal for the intended audience. Awards are given in three categories: Picture Book, Youth Literature, and Youth Non-Fiction.

SEEKING NOMINATIONS FOR THE 2018 MIDDLE EAST BOOK AWARD

Books published in the period between January 1, 2017 and June 30, 2018 are eligible to be nominated for the 2018 award. Books must address in a substantive way any part of the Middle East region, or any of its component peoples or cultures, either through expository text (youth non-fiction category) or through characterization, action and plot (picture book and youth literature categories).

For purposes of this award, the Middle East is defined as: Afghanistan, Algeria, Bahrain, Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Israel, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya, Morocco, Oman, the Palestinian Territories, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Turkey, the United Arab Emirates, and Yemen. Books set outside the region may be eligible for consideration if one or more main characters are from the Middle East and their origin or culture is pertinent to the plot of the book.

Nominated titles must be primarily written in English and available for purchase in North America.

A committee of MEOC members, including teachers, librarians, outreach coordinators, and other educators select award winners (and, if deemed appropriate, honorable mention titles) in three categories:

- Picture Book (simple text accompanied by large images on most pages, intended for elementary school readers).
- Youth Literature (plot-driven books appropriate for readers in middle and high school).
- Youth Non-Fiction (reference or other non-fiction—e.g., memoir—intended for K-12 audiences or their teachers).

The award will be presented at the MEOC Annual Business Meeting at the Middle East Studies Association Conference in San Antonio, TX, tentatively scheduled for November 15, 2018.
